"ROLY-POLY" IS FUNNY

It's the Most Amusing Advertising Mix-Up Ever Seen in

FIFTY DOLLARS IN PRIZES

Contestants Will Find It Hard to Solve, But Well Worth the Trying.

If you want to laugh, and that right heartily, read the "Roly-Poly" page in Sunday's Times-Dispatch.

It'll chase away the blues and bring "the smile that won't come off." It's both funny and instructive.

"Roly-Poly" is a hodge-podge of non-stree-ns it will appear Sunday, but it can be solved easily with a little patience.

sense-as it will appear Sunday, but it cam be solved easily with a little patience.

Nearly one hundred leading business houses are represented in the funny contest. Each one has an advertisement of five lines, occupying a single square. In each square is the name of the firm. The other four lines of his "ad." are placed in other squares. The trick is to assemble the lines of each advertiser. It will take time and thought.

Readers of The Times-Dispatch are familiar with nearly all of the business houses represented. Select the lines that fit every individual business, put them together correctly, and you've solved Itoly Poly.

Each firm represented has the card correctly written. You can verify your list by calling on them. No telephone calls will be answered by advertisers. A personal call must be made to verify your card. That won't be much trouble. The stores are full of new things for spring and you can see the smartest of rashlon's creations, while you are husting for the gold The Times-Dispatch offers to the lucky guessers.

The merchants will be glad to see you, and glad to tell you how the card reads. But they bar telephone calls.

Sunday's Roly-Poly will tell you that a large dry goods house sells "stoves, ranges and heaters." You know better, if you were told to go to a jeweiers for "home dressed beef," you'd laugh. And how absurd for a clothing house to offer "the wines and whilskles." Think of a cealer in soft drinks selling "bread, rolls and biscults," and then saying "they taste old and are old." The latter line fits a liquor house—and belongs to one. biscults," and then saying "they old and ure old." The latter line a liquor house—and belongs to one, so they go, incongruous and mean-

And so they go, incompanies.

Many, in foct, nearly all of the advertisers were in "Who is Who?" They like Roly-Poly because it will familiarize readers with features of their business. The Times-Dispatch, always in line to benefit both the advertiser and reader, is pleased to offer attractive novelties. The success of "Who is Who?" will be repeated in Sunday's great puzzle. It's easier and funnier, and a half hundred iteliars is worth working for.

Don't miss it.

kin spoke on the subject of "Tempta-tion." Referring to some of the tempta-tions that beset the path of the young man, Dr. Woelfkin said that while it is now fashionable to disbelieve in a per-sonal devil, it was impossible to account for the diabolical ingenuity of evil men without believing it was due to the devil. without believing it was due to the devil. He referred to card-playing and theatre going and said both were near the border line. He ridiculed the stage as an educational ingituation, and said it could never be recovered for education. Business also, he declared might lead meninto temptation. But it must be rememined that temptation is not a bline alley. into temptation. But it must be remembered that temptation is not a blind alley, but, a thoroughfare. A man can go through it to the other side. Defeat is not necessary; he may win victory, overcome temptation, and emerge stronger, there exert Newport News, and A. V. Russell, of Farnville.

Press secretary, A. F. Jackson, of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

A committee composed of Mossys. Smith and Morton was appointed to escort the new president to the chair. The delegates rose on masse while Dr. Kent proceeded to the chair. He was introduced by the retiring chairman, Dr. Livius Lankford. Dr. Kent spoke briefly, but happily, of his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him. Referring to the great work of the Y. M. C. A., he said that never, since his college days, has he falled to be connected with some association. He expressed pleasure and gratification at the opportunity given to him to serve the work of the Y. M. C. A. in any degree, however slight. Of the convention now in progress, he spoke highly. He noted the great spiritual atmosphere that had been thrown around the convention by the uplifting prayer and praise, and said he was glad to see that the twenty-seventh session had be-gun right.

Address of Mr. Wood.

Address of Mr. Wood.

After the transaction of some small business, including the passage of a motion extending the privileges of the floot to the pustors present, and any visiting delegates or members from State or international movements, Dr. Kent performed the first duty of his new office—the introduction of the next speaker.

The speaker was W. M. Wood, superintendent of education of the association at Chicago, Ill, and the subject, "The Need for an Aggressive Evangelism." Mr. Wood is a striking personality, and his address was a strong and powerful one that received the close and careful attention of the audience. After his opening paragraphs, in which he took the case of the inert machine, unconnected with the electrical power source, to illustrate the inert and inactive man who has established no connection with the God-head, the speaker went on to define what evangelism in its proper series contains. Evangelism, he said, dees not mean simply the proclaiming of the Gospel, the telling of the story, but its stands for the production of a conviction. The elemental characteristics of an aggressive evangelization he declared to be the five things: Information, Conviction, Determination, Declaration, and Action.

an aggressive evangelization he declared to be the five things: information, Conviction, Determination, Declaration, and Action.

The need for such an evangelism, aggressive and progressive, Mr. Wood pointed out from several points of view. It is needed to arouse the spiritual side of men and to remove the distractions—complacency, contentment, and so on—that are holding men away from God. Such a need is felt furthermore because the young man of to-day is the sought out victim of all the forces of evil, which have to be counteracted. Thousands are combined to work out the destruction of young men for mencenary gains and more base purpose. In Chicago, said sho speaker, statistics show that one person in aineteen is in business for the corruption of young men—saloon-keepers, gamblers, hardots, confidence game men and so on.

Continuing, the speaker declared that lers, harlots, confidence game men and so on.

Continuing, the speaker declared that an aggressive evangelism is needed also for the sake of the association and for the sake of Jesus and the Father. It was needed to prevent the beginning of disaster; to preserve the association from maternalism and clubism. The club feature of Y. M. C. A. work could be used as a power for good, but it could be abused. Let the Y. M. C. A. not become a club. It should remember that the club feature is a means to an end, not the end.

Committees Announced.

As soon as Mr. Wood concluded his ad-ress, the chair announced the follow-prominent persons died from pneu-monia as during the past week, and Never in recent times have so many aration among patent medicines that prominent persons died from pneumonia as during the past week, and the disease is raging in epidemic proportions all over the country. The record of 322 deaths in New York last week is closely followed by Chicago, where there were 173 deaths, and in Boston and other centers, in all of which the hospitals are overcrowded with pneumonia victims. Physicians are devoting more attention than over to means to prevent pneumonia, and the leading authorities agree that the majority of fatal meumonia cases are caused by the pattent taking for a cold some so-called "caugh cure" or "baisam," which depends upon poisonous drugs for its offect. These drugs deaden the nerves and stop secretion along the breathing tract, which is always followed by congestion and inflanmation, and that causes pneumonia. There is the same dapper in the use of other so-called cures which depend upon the alcohol they contain for their temporary stimulating effect. It is almost impossible to find a single prepdoes not contain these dangerous polson-

Afternoon Session.

After a praise service of about fifteen minutes, at which several Scriptural testimonies were given and the Virginia Glee Club quartette sang. Dr. Witherspoon opened the regular afternoon session with prayer.

Mr. DeWitt Crane, of Newport News, presented the subject, "The Necessity of a Comprehensive Study of Local Conditions, and Adopting a Progressive and Workable Policy." He stated at the beginning that what he had to say related more to the city and railroad associations, but in the discussion following the reading of his paper it was seen that the subject was not only applicable to the college associations, but that some of the students' experiences would enlighten the older men.

After the discussion of Mr. Crane's subject, Rev. P. B. Price, a charter member of the Richmond association, entertained the convention for a few minutes with some reminiscences of the Richmond association. He has been a member since 1855, and his recollections were very interesting. A symposium or, the subject, "Personal Words from Presidents," followed.

As the convention was about to adjourn, one of the delegates came forward and offered a resolution which reads as follows, and which was referred to the Committee on Resolutions:
Whereas, Mrs. Dodge, widow of W. E. Dedge, of New York, has made a most liberal and kind offer to our beloved State University, and, whereas, the said offer is coupled with a very reasonable contention, now, therefore, be it, and the same of the same

Army and Navy Work.

Equally important and almost as interesting was the discusion of the army and navy work, led by the international Secretary, Mr. J. S. Tichenor. On a front bench in one side of the house sat about ten uniformed regulars from Fortress Monroe; on the other as many blue-conted salior lads from the navy yard. The secretary of the navy association and the secretary of the army association each made brief speeches and then several of the solders and sallors, brave roung fellows, got up and sald a few words. A number of the little talks, breathing the gratitude of the speakers for the work of the Y. M. C. A. were pathetic and soul-stirring and they aroused the great enthusiasm of the audlence. dience.

The railroad work was sbly set forth by Mr. C. S. Ward, field secretary of International Committee. Mr. Ward is a splendid speaker and he held the careful attention of the delegates. After a few reports from committees the convention adjourned until to-day.

Convention Notes.

A reception to the delegates and their friends was tendered by Governor and Mrs. Montague yosterday afternoon from 5 to 7:30 o'clock at the Executive Man-

Army and Navy Work.

Mrs. Montague yesterday atternoon from 5 to 7:30 o'clock at the Executive Mansion.

The entertainment of the convention and of the delegates has been carefully planned, and is being brilliantly executed. On Thursday night Mr. Polk Miller delighted the large audience at the reception. The Newport News quartette is winning many friends and admirers, and the Virginia Glee Club is a popular favorite at once. Mr. Haddon S. Wukkins has rendered several fine solos. To-day three lunches will be served by the lades of the city at Centenary. Second Baptist and Seventh Street Christian. This afternoon at 4 o'clock the local street railway department will give to the delegates a trolley ride over the lines of the Passenger and Power Company. At 5:30 o'clock this afternoon a reception and banquet will be given at Murphy's by the Y. M. C. A. of Richmond, in honor of the distinguished guests.

To-morrow afternoon three big meetings will be held, and John R. Mott, the famous Y. M. C. A. worker, will speak at the Academy. The Governor and the Legislature have been invited. At the same time a woman's religious mass meeting will be held by the ladies at the First Baptist Church.

The convention will be busy to-day, Dr. Weelfkin will speak again in the morning, and in the afternoon there will be held a departmental, conference at Centenary. At the latter John R. Mott will conduct an "open conference." At the night session Mr. Mott will speak on "The Students of the World United."

SUPERVISORS LEVY TAXES

Two Families Are Sorely Afflicted With Smallpox.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
BOYDTON, VA., March 4.—The supervisors of Mecklenburg last week levied taxes as follows: On all property, real and personal, sixty cents on the $100 for the county; twenty cents for roads; fifteen cents for district schools, and five cents for courty schools.

The board empowered any member of the supervisors to have any person vaccinated in their district at the expense of the county.

There are two familles—one about six miles to the east of here, and the other about the same to the west—who are sorely afflicted with smallpox. The one living to the east is Mr. Boney Cooper.
